"The IN SITU (International Summer School in IT Law at Leibniz Universität Hannover) 2015 came to an end - with hot topics related to IT and IP Law, with heated discussion, with lecturers' passion and staff's warm kindness, and with warmhearted amazing friends from about 17 countries.."

Peter Lee (Japan)

"..This summer school was my first exposure to IT Law and I could not have asked for a more interesting course. Your extensive knowledge, enthusiasm and organization made the class a pleasure to attend and study for."

Institute for Legal Informatics

The Institute for Legal Informatics (IRI) was founded by Prof. Wolfgang Kilian in 1983 as the first of its kind and became the biggest and most prominent Research Institute in the field of Information Technology Law in Germany. Today the IRI hosts 5 Professors and 25 Research Associates, who investigate and teach this fast changing legal discipline. International students who would like to specialize in IT Law can enroll in a specialized LL.M. Programme or conduct the Summer-school in IT Law (IN SITU), which are both held in English.

IN SITU

The Summer School IN SITU offers a four- week- long academic training in IT Law, where people from diverse cultural and legal backgrounds come together and learn about this exciting new area of law. The course is taught in English by highly qualified IRI staff and guest lecturers from our partner universities. However, IN SITU is not just about learning, it is also about making new friends and becoming part of the "IRI-Family", an ever growing network of IRI staff and alumni. As such the focus is not only on the academic curriculum but also on the social aspect. Students are invited to live together in accommodations, where they sleep, cook and eat together thus facilitating the exchange of ideas about the course and own research projects. To foster this dynamic the IN SITU Orga Team organizes several leisure activities such as trips to Hamburg and Berlin.

What is IT-Law?

IT Law regulates the use and exploitation of Information Technologies including the use of computers, the internet and so called "clouds", smart phones, tablets and TV cable transmissions. IT Law is a new field of law, which emerged in the early 80ies.

Academic-Programme

The academic curriculum is divided into different blocks: introductory, Information Technology and Intellectual Property Law. The course is completed with a 3 hour examination, in which students have to demonstrate that they can use the skills and tools acquired during the summer school to answer cutting edge legal questions in the field. Students are awarded with a Certificate and 10 ECTS.

Subjects taught include:

- European Regulation of Information Technology Law
- Data Protection Law
- Cyber Security Law
- Consumer Protection and Astrourfing
- Cybercrime and Surveillance
- E-commerce
- European Intellectual Property Law
- Legal Protection of Computer Programmes
- Legal issues of Digital Contents
- Intellectual Property, illuminated by a Human Rights and Competition Law Perspective
- Arbitration in Intellectual Property Disputes

Leisure

We will organize an ice-breaker at a beer garden, a city tour through Hanover, a day Trip to Hamburg including a visit to the Google Headquarters, a mesmerizing experience at the biggest lake festival (Maschseefest), a weekend Trip to Berlin as well as an international evening, where everyone has the chance to present one culinary specialty from their home town. In addition, you will have plenty of time to explore Hanover and its surroundings with your new friends. Points of interests are for instance the Royal Gardens (Herrenhäuser Gärten), the Hanover shopping mile, the Zoo or just the swimming pool next door, when the summer sun shines at its brightest. Leisure activities are of course voluntary, however, in order to make the best of your experience here in Germany, we invite you attend as many activities as possible!
